FROM CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 20th, 1893.

ED. APPEAL.—The exhibit of the United States is much too large. For so young a country we are surprisingly advanced and are very close to Great Britain, Germany etc. in general merit. If an unprejudiced jury could have selected from the vast number of paintings there, an exhibit as large as that of France or Great Britain, the result would have surprised the world. As it is the number is so large that the poor efforts are in overwhelming majority and one is apt to overlook or forget the many splendid canvases which became merged in the confusing whole. I will say here that we are not alone in exhibiting poor pictures. One of the walls in nearly all if not in every gallery are horrible attempts that the most vivid imagination or most charitable could never construe to be art. You wonder constantly how on earth those things ever managed to scrape in.

I am undecided as to any one favorite picture and have therefore decided on about four. These are in the French and Russian department—two in each. In the French one of my favorites is a picture of cattle and sheep. They are of large size and done with startling realism. The picture is called "Returning Home." It was painted by Adolphe Marais. The other picture is in the same room. It is called "The Wasp's Nest" but many have dubbed it "Besieged by Love." It represents a half nude figure of a young woman, surrounded by a perfect swarm of young cupids. Her arms are raised to ward off the persisted attacks of the diminutive Gods of Love but from the smile of beatitude upon her beautiful face, one reads that her effort is only half-hearted and that after all she will not struggle long against the passion that is said to "find the way." The picture is by Bongureau, which is a sufficient guarantee of its execution as to drawing and coloring. The picture is owned by Charles L. Yerks, of Chicago.

My Russian favorites are "The Budes Attire," and "Phryne." The first is by Makovsky. It has that same wealth of color, excellence of design and composition, and beauty of the faces and figures of the women that characterizes the "Russian Wedding Feast." It is one of the most pleasant pictures to look upon contained in the whole Palace. "Phryne" was a celebrated beauty who lived about 250 B. C. * * * at a procession in honor of Venus, Phryne appears to the admiring people," says the catalogue. "Phryne," in the picture, is disrobed in all her matchless beauty before an enchanted populace. The eager, worshipping groups about her are wonderfully painted. As the figures are life size the artist was given great scope. He has produced a very remarkable picture. His name is Henry Simiradsky and his picture is the property of the Czar.

I would like to numerate and describe the hundreds of pictures which I marked in my catalogue—especially some of those in the French, but unless I wrote a small volume the task would be impossible.

I found Rosa Bonheur's "King of the Forest," a large stag, standing at the edge of the wood. It disappointed me greatly as I could not persuade myself that it is good and I have always admired the artist.

Among the portraits—which were without end—the best were in the French and Belgium sections. One of Pope Leo XIII, which has been much re-reproduced, is unexcelled. It is by the French artist Thaubold Chartran. Another French artist Leon Bonnat has two portraits, one of which is of Ernest Renan, the other of Cardinal Lavignerie. They are the most remarkable I have ever seen. The portraits which I mentioned as from Belgium are by Jan Van Beers. It is a significant fact that many of them were painted in Paris, where he studied. These are generally small but of an excellence that is instantly apparent.

In the U. S. loan collection are the gems of the artists of yesterday, with some few of to-day. There are many of the best pictures from such brushes as that of Rousseau, Troyon, and many others. I saw there among others, one of Millet's best pictures, "The Man with the Hoe." It was loaned by Mrs. W. H. Crocker of San Francisco.

(Concluded tomorrow.)

Mining strikes are reported in Silver City.

Republican Victories.

Dispatches from all over the country show Republican victories.

McKinley's majority in Ohio is estimated at 100,000, and the Republicans carried some counties which they did not carry during the war.

In New York the Republicans secured control of the Legislature, but Tammany carried New York City.

In New Jersey the Republicans have a majority in the Senate and Assembly.

Jackson, the Republican candidate for Governor, in Iowa, was elected by 30,000 plurality. The balance of the Republican ticket also won.

Populists and Republicans both claim Kansas.

The Democrats made a clean sweep in Kentucky.

Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Colorado and South Dakota all went Republican.

Viewed From Abroad.

A friendly notice from the Sacramento Bee is very highly prized by all Pacific Coast newspapers. The Bee is ranked as an expert and only speaks when it has something to say. Speaking of the APPEAL it says:

On October 1st the Carson APPEAL commenced volume forty four. Its editor is so busy making preparations for his exhibition of frontier journalism at the Midwinter Fair, that he entirely forgot the important event in APPEAL's history until nearly a month later. The APPEAL is as much a feature of Nevada as the footprints at Carson. There is seldom an issue of the paper that does not contain something worthy of reproduction. May the APPEAL celebrate many anniversaries under its present management!

Land Office Consolidation.

It is officially announced by the Commissioner of the General Land Office that the President, by Executive order has pursuant to law directed that the U. S. Local Land Office at Eureka, in the State of Nevada, be discontinued, and its business and archives transferred to and consolidated with the Carson City Land Office. Further notice of the precise time when the local land officers at Eureka will cease to receive application for and transact business relating to land in the district, preparatory to removal, and when the land officers at Carson will be in readiness to receive application for the lands transferred, will be given by the Register and Receiver at Carson City by publication.

The Boss Flour.

The Riverside Flouring Mills at Reno carried off the first premium for flour at the World's Fair in competition with the whole United States.

The old silurians who buy Sacramento flour on the grounds that Nevada flour is not quite good enough, will now have no longer any excuse for not patronizing home industry.

Counsellor Clarke, alias Nobby Clarke, the famous shyster attorney of San Francisco, seems to have about reached the end of his tether and the jail stares him in the face.

He belongs to that class of attorneys, rather too frequent in the West, who depend entirely on dishonesty and trickery to win cases. These men succeed temporarily until it becomes known that any case they take must be a bad case requiring dirty work, and in their declining years they are despised by the community. The man has been a prominent and disgusting example of the trickery attorney for more than quarter of a century in San Francisco.

Many think the old Greenback party did no good. But this is a mistake; for had it not been for the fight the Greenbacks made before the people and in Congress, the goldbugs would have pushed the contraction business until every last greenback had been called in and burned up. The battle for more money, and government banking is now to be fought over, and fought to a finish, and the old greenback veterans have the proud satisfaction of seeing themselves supported and vindicated by the hosts and legions of Populists.—Silver State.

The dispatches tell of another horrible outrage committed by Spanish anarchists yesterday. Two bombs were thrown into a crowded theatre in Barcelona, and eighteen people were killed and many terribly mangled.

The editor of the APPEAL departed for San Francisco last evening to complete arrangements for the Mining Camp exhibit.
